JAMES R. OSGOOD & CO.'S NEW BOOKS.

To appear in September.

JEWISH AND CHRISTIAN HISTORY. 3 vols., 12mo, with beautiful full-page illustrations. Cloth..... $4 50
Half calf..... 9 00

This work has been undertaken in the hope of meeting a serious need long and deeply felt by parents and teachers. To make Bible study profitable, it is needful that Jewish history and Bible narrative should be so interwoven, that a consecutive idea of the historical chain of events should be presented in a way unattainable in the ordinary form of disconnected Bible stories.

All contemporary and modern authorities have been freely consulted, and their material freely used, without personal or sectarian bias. As far as possible, Bible language has been retained; and notes have been added, giving results of modern investigation.

THE OLD MASTERS OF BELGIUM AND HOLLAND. Translated from the French of Eugène Fromentin. By Mrs. Mary C. Robbins. 1 vol., octavo, uniform with "Millet" and "Parisian Art." Illustrated..... 3 00

A critical and descriptive account of the Flemish School of Art by the greatest modern French art critic, with full-page Heliotypes of the masterpieces of Rubens, Rembrandt, and others described in its pages.

CHIMES AND RHYMES FOR HOLIDAY TIMES. Edited by Almira L. Hayward. 1 vol. "Birthday-Book" size. Illustrated..... 1 00
Half calf, $2.25; flexible morocco..... 3 00

A choice collection of pieces for the principal sacred and secular festivals of the year, New Year, Easter, Memorial Day, Fourth of July, Thanksgiving, Christmas, etc. Selected by the same editor, and produced with the same beauty of style, which have made the American Birthday-Book so universally popular.

GRANDMA'S GARDEN. Edited and arranged by Kate Sanborn. Illuminated covers by Walter Satterlee. Leaflets, in the style of "Purple and Gold."..... 1 25

The instant popularity and large sale of "Purple and Gold" attested the happiness of Miss Sanborn's selections, and the desire of the public for such a book, which will serve all the purposes of a common Christmas card, and yet is far cheaper, and contains something of real value and permanence. This year's leaflet contains much original matter, including new poems by Rose Terry Cooke, Lucy Larcom, Edna Dean Proctor, Hezekiah Butterworth, etc.

KATE SANBORN'S SUNSHINE CALENDAR for every day in the year. With design by J. W. Champney ("Champ"). Carefully mounted..... 1 25

The best and most attractive of all calendars yet offered, with selections from every source, ranging "from grave to gay, from lively to severe."

LITERATURE LESSONS. By Kate Sanborn. Printed separately on sheets. Price for each author..... 25

These novel and labor-saving Literature Lessons are called the "Round Table" Series; twenty-five papers, from Chaucer to Tennyson, with suggestions for study, subjects for essays, special readings for each period, brought down to latest date. Each author is treated by topics, with his contemporaries in his own country, and afterward, all over the world, grouped in circles about the central figure.

BILLY BLEW-AWAY'S ALPHABETICAL, ORTHOGRAPHICAL, AND PHILOLOGICAL PICTURE-BOOK for Learners. "Lazy Hour Series."
1 vol., oblong octavo..... 75

An amusing and instructive A B C book for children "of all ages," on an entirely new and attractive scheme. Sure to stimulate both laughter and learning.

NEW EDITION. PRICE REDUCED.

ON THE IMITATION OF CHRIST. By Thomas à Kempis. The latest revised translation, with over 300 new and beautiful Emblematical Designs, Headpieces, Tailpieces, and Vignettes. 1 vol., 16mo, red edges..... 1 50
Half calf, $3; flexible morocco..... 4 00

"This famous old work has never, to our knowledge, appeared in as attractive an edition as the one under notice. Messrs. James R. Osgood & Co. have issued it in exquisite style, with numerous illustrations, designed in the spirit of the text. It merits a place in every library."—Episcopal Register.

AMERICAN ACTOR SERIES. CHARLES ALBERT FECHTER. By Kate Field. Vol. VI. of the "American Actor Series." Illustrated..... 1 25

"The 'American Actor Series' is not an attempt to set forth the annals of the American stage; but, when it is completed, its volumes will give a fairer view of the history of the theatre in these United States than can now be obtained anywhere else. . . . Theatrical autobiographies, indeed, are at all times entertaining, from Colley Cibber's 'Apology' to the straggling narrative of the strolling of Mr. Ludlow and Sol Smith. They are full of the true flavor of character, dear to all lovers of what is perhaps rarest of all things in print—the simple expression of self."—The Century Magazine.

THE HISTORICAL, POLITICAL, AND DIPLOMATIC WORKS OF NICCOLO MACHIAVELLI. Translated from the Italian by C. E. Detmold.

4 vols., octavo, with steel frontispieces, in box.....$15 00

Half calf..... 30 00

A fresh translation, unrivalled in care, scholarship, and completeness, of the works of this extraordinary and much misunderstood writer. The translator writes in his preface: "I think it can with truth be said of Machiavelli, that he has been more abused than known, and that, had he been better known, he would have been less abused. For the reader of his works would have become satisfied that Machiavelli was neither devil nor saint, but simply a most gifted, honest man and patriot, who was not afraid to write, in the most terse and lucid manner, what he honestly thought calculated to advance the interests of his country, which he had so much at heart." No library or historical student should be without this work.

LIEUT. DANENHOWER'S NARRATIVE OF THE JEANNETTE. 1 vol., 12mo. Portrait and illustrations. Paper covers..... 25

The only Authorized and Complete Edition.

In October.

THE HOLIDAY BOOK OF THE YEAR.

SIR WALTER SCOTT'S LADY OF THE LAKE. An entirely new edition of Scott's most famous and popular poem, from new plates, with one hundred and twenty new illustrations by leading American artists. ALL THE LANDSCAPES FROM DRAWINGS MADE UPON THE SPOT. Elegantly and appropriately bound, with full gilt edges, in box. Price, in cloth..... 6 00

In tree calf or antique morocco..... 10 00

"'THE LADY OF THE LAKE' has been chosen as a subject for illustration, not only for its picturesque features, which invite in an unusual degree the sympathetic treatment of the artist, but also for the romantic personal interest which the story inspires, and which gives it a close hold on the affections of all readers. It is believed also that the present illustrated edition will be a welcome souvenir to thousands of travellers who have visited that beautiful region."

In order to secure accuracy, as well as freshness of treatment, the publishers commissioned Mr. A. V. S. Anthony, under whose supervision this edition has been executed, to visit the Scottish Highlands, and make sketches on the spot. Every scene of the poem was personally visited and sketched by him, and these sketches have afforded the basis of the landscapes offered in this book. These landscapes, for obvious reasons, depict the scenery as it is at the present time; while the costumes, weapons, and other accessories of the figure-pieces, are of the period of the action of the poem, being carefully studied from contemporary pictures and descriptions, or from later authoritative works.

W. D. HOWELLS' LATEST AND BEST NOVEL.

"His best work, subtle, observant, and strong."—Advertiser.

"The best novel he has yet produced."—New York Tribune.

"His new story has all his former excellences of style and success in character painting, and is, in addition, very interesting as a narrative."—Saturday Evening Gazette.

SHORT SAYINGS OF GREAT MEN, with Historical and Explanatory Notes. By S. Arthur Bent, A.M. 1 vol., 8vo. Uniform with "Familiar Allusions." 3 00

A work somewhat supplementary in its scope to "Familiar Quotations" and "Familiar Allusions," and like them indispensable to students, writers, and libraries. It gives a collection of short, sententious sayings of all times, such as have passed into language and are constantly referred to, but, not having been originally written in books, are not to be found in other books of reference. A short sketch of each speaker and the circumstances attending each remark is also given. A copious and accurate index completes the usefulness of the work.

POEMS OF THE HOUSEHOLD. By Margaret E. Sangster. 1 vol., 16mo..... 1 50

MEMOIR OF JOHN A. DAHLGREN: Rear-Admiral United States Navy. By his widow, Madeleine Vinton Dahlgren. 1 vol., 8vo, with portraits and illustrations. 3 00

An interesting and valuable memoir of a distinguished officer, who illustrated his counry's record, both by his scientific attainments and his services in war-times.

NANTUCKET SCRAPS; or, The Experiences of an Off-Islander, in Season and out of Season, among a Peculiar People. By Mrs. Jane G. Austin. 1 vol., 16mo..... 1 50

POEMS OF LIFE AND NATURE. By Mary Clemmer. 1 vol., 12mo..... 1 50

THE LIFE OF THE LATE DR. WILLIAM RIMMER. By H. T. Bartlett. With illustrations from his Paintings, Drawings and Sculpture. 1 vol., 4to, full gilt. 10 00

A sympathetic and careful account of Dr. Rimmer's life and works, in and near Boston, and at New York, during the last twenty-five years, with descriptions and pictures of his works, and discussions of his theories of art and nature. The strange career of this talented man—a scion of the blood royal of France, growing up, under an assumed name, in rural New England, and developing an artistic power and originality of rare and uncommon scope, attested by many works, as well as by noble axiomatic sayings—is full of deep significance, and its record will be studied with unfailing interest and sympathy.

Among the illustrations are heliotype reproductions of Rimmer's famous works: The Falling Gladiator, St. Stephen, Osiris, Victory, Morning, The Fall of Day, The Call to Arms, Nine Days they Fell, Faith, Despair, etc.

HOME-LIFE IN THE BIBLE. By Henrietta Lee Palmer. Edited by John W. Palmer. With 220 illustrations. Full octavo..... $3 50

"Mrs. Palmer has found a new aspect of Bible history: the home-life of the ancient Jew has, of course, passed under the notice of many authors; but there is a refreshing novelty in the special study of it. The illustrations greatly aid the general reader, and are both appropriate and of artistic merit. The editing is of a very satisfactory character, including very careful and helpful indexing, which includes a reference-table for every Bible text referred to in the work. In short, here are 401 octavo pages of excellent reading, in fine large type, on excellent paper, and tastefully bound. We could wish that Mrs. Palmer's 'Home-life in the Bible' were studied in every American household, for the study of it would help to make American home-life richer and happier."—The Methodist.

A BEAUTIFUL AND NOVEL GIFT-BOOK.

PARISIAN ART AND ARTISTS. By Henry Bacon. Profusely illustrated. 1 vol., 8vo..... 3 00

Containing the artist-author's popular "Scribner" articles, largely augmented, depicting with pen and pencil the works and life of the most popular and famous Parisian artists of the day, with nearly fifty full-page fac-similes of their original drawings.

In November.

THE LIFE AND LETTERS OF FRANCIS LIEBER. Edited by Thomas Sergeant Perry. With Portrait. 1 vol., 8vo..... 3 00

The remarkable acquirements and high standing of Dr. Lieber, together with his long life and extensive acquaintance with the foremost men of his age, render this volume of his life and correspondence one of great interest and permanent value.

MODERN PERSPECTIVE. For Architects, Artists, and Draughtsmen. By Professor William R. Ware. With Portfolio of Plates in oblong folio.

The latest words on perspective as applied in architectural drawing, and the representation of buildings, monuments, etc. Illustrated with a great number of plates and diagrams, of great value to artists and architects.

THE LAMBS. A Burlesque Tragedy. A Satire on Wall Street. By Robert Grant, author of "Confessions of a Frivolous Girl," "The Little Tin Gods on Wheels," etc. Illustrated..... 1 00

One small volume elegantly ornamented.

AN ENTIRELY NEW ROMANCE BY NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE.

DOCTOR GRIMSHAWE'S SECRET. By Nathaniel Hawthorne. With preface by Julian Hawthorne. 1 vol., 12mo..... 1 50

This novel, long overlooked and but recently discovered among Mr. Hawthorne's papers, is one of his most powerful and characteristic productions. The scenes are laid on both sides of the Atlantic, the story turning upon the claims of an American heir to ancestral English estates. All readers of the Great American Romancer will welcome this latest and probably last contribution to his published works.

In December.

AN INDEX TO PERIODICAL LITERATURE. By William Frederick Poole, LL.D., Librarian of the Chicago Public Library. Third edition brought down to January, 1882, with the assistance as Associate Editor of William I. Fletcher, Assistant Librarian of the Watkinson Library, Hartford, Conn., and the co-operation of the American Library Association and the Library Association of the United Kingdom. 1 vol., royal 8vo.....

SPIRITUAL CREATION, and the Necessary Implication of Nature in it. A Essay towards ascertaining the Rôle of Evil in Divine Housekeeping. By Henry James. 1 vol., 12mo.....

CARLYLE AND EMERSON.

THE CORRESPONDENCE OF THOMAS CARLYLE AND RALPH WALDO EMERSON: 1834 to 1872. Edited by Charles Eliot Norton. 2 vols., 12mo.....

These letters, extending over a period of nearly forty years, were, by the common consent and direction of the illustrious writers, long since placed in Mr. Norton's hands with the fullest powers for editing and publication. Mr. Norton's connection with the book is sufficient guaranty of the quality of the editorial work, while it is not too much to claim that the correspondence itself will be found to be the most valuable and entertaining work of the kind ever issued.

OLD LOVE LETTERS, or Letters of Sentiment. Written by persons eminent in English Literature and History. Collected and edited by Abby Sage Richardson. 1 vol. Little Classic size.....

A unique and interesting collection of letters of the last four hundred years, in which men and women distinguished in literature, science, art, and politics have expressed love, friendship, or sentiment for each other. Carefully selected and edited, with biographical sketches of the writers.

NOTES IN SEASON.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have just added to the Leisure Hour Series a novel of early days in Connecticut, by G. H. Hollister, entitled, "Kinley Hollow."

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS publish this week a new work by W. H. Mallock, entitled "Social Equality, a study in a missing science," devoted to the consideration and analysis of social problems.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have nearly ready, "Little People of Asia," by Olive Thorne Miller, author of "Little Folks in Feathers and Fur." The new book bids fair to equal its predecessor in interest to children.

GINN, HEATH & Co. will publish, August 21, a "Complete Algebra," by George A. Wentworth. The first 350 pages will be identical with the "Elements of Algebra," the remaining 160 pages will discuss higher algebra.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have put their popular Family edition of Longfellow's and Whittier's poems in new and handsome bindings, far more attractive than the former style; also their famous Red-line editions of Whittier, Tennyson, Longfellow, Lowell, Owen Meredith, Saxe, Scott, Procter, Burns.

ESTES & LAURIAT will have ready, September 1st, three notable illustrated juveniles—"The Young Folks' History of London," by W. H. Rideing, "Young Folks' Life of Washington," and "Page, Squire, and Knight, or the Days of Chivalry." A historical story of the middle ages, edited by W. Davenport Adams.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. publish this week "The Geneva Award Acts," devoted to a review of the legislation of Congress on the Geneva Award, with notes and references to the decisions of the Courts of Commissioners of Alabama Claims. It is compiled by Frank W. Hackett, of the Washington Bar, and one of the counsel in behalf of the United States in connection with the Alabama claims.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT & Co., have nearly ready "Pennsylvania Dutch" and other essays by Phebe E. Gibbons, third and revised edition, "Aphorisms," from the German of Marie F. von Ebner Eschenbach, by Mrs. A. L. Wister; "Tasso," by E. J. Hassell, edited by Mrs. Oliphant, being the sixteenth volume of "Foreign Classics for English readers;" "Zoological Sketches," by Felix L. Oswald, M.D., and another volume of the new popular edition of Prescott's works, edited by J. Foster Kirk, "Miscellaneous Essays" one volume.

D. LOTHROP & Co. will issue, September 1, "Field, Wood, and Meadow Rambles, How we went Bird's-Nesting," by Amanda B. Harris, illustrated by Geo. F. Barnes, treating of the habits and resorts of the birds of Southern New Hampshire; "A Family Flight over Egypt and Syria," and "A Family Flight through France, Germany, Norway, and Switzerland," two illustrated volumes by E. E. and Susan Hall, containing amusing adventures blended with interest and instructive information; "What the Seven Did," by the popular Margaret Sidney, the designs by J. Wells Champney; "Young People at Home, Young People Abroad," by "Pansy;" "A Fortunate Failure," by Caroline Le Row, one of the best by this much-liked writer of magazine stories; and "Young Folks' History of Mexico," by Fred A. Ober, fully illustrated; "Young Folks' History of the Netherlands," by Alexander Young, "Attractive additions to the 2d series of Young Folks' Histories.

JAMES R. OSGOOD & Co. will issue in September, "Jewish History and Bible Narrative," chiefly intended for the use of parents and teachers. All contemporary and modern authorities have been freely consulted and used, without personal and sectarian bias. As far as possible, the language of the Bible has been retained, and the results of modern investigation given in notes. The text and illustrations render the work one of the most instructive upon the subject. They will issue at the same time, "The Old Masters of Belgium and Holland," from the French of Eugène Fromentin, by Mrs. Mary C. Robbins, a valuable publication on Flemish art, by a famous French art critic, richly illustrated with heliotypes of the paintings of the masters; "Chimes and Rhymes for Holiday Times," edited by Almira L. Hayward, choice selections; "Grandma's Garden," edited by Kate Sanborn, containing new poems by Rose Terry Cooke, Lucy Larcom, Edna Dean Proctor, Hezekiah Butterworth, and other popular poets; Kate Sanborn's "Sunshine Calendar" for every day in the year, an attractive calendar with a design by J. W. Champney; and "Literature Lessons," by Kate Sanborn, a series of twenty-five papers from Chaucer to Tennyson printed on separate sheets, with subjects for essays and study and arranged in an original form admirably adapted for school use or private reading. They have also in press for immediate issue, "Billy Blew-away's Alphabetical, Orthographical and Philological Picture-Book for Learners," Lazy Hour Lines, an amusing and instructive A, B, C, book for children or their elders on a new and entertaining plan; and "The Historical, Political and Diplomatic works of Niccolo Machiavelli," translated from the Italian by C. E. Detmold. This is a scholarly translation of a gifted misunderstood man and patriot. The great need of reliable works relating to Italian writers or famous men will insure a hearty welcome to this publication. Not the least interesting among their new books will be "Lieut. Danenhower's Narrative of the Jeannette," the only authorized and complete edition.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

In this list, the titles in brevier are direct transcriptions from books actually received, according to the rule of the American Library Association; those in nonpareil are from the best information available, and will be repeated in brevier when the book is received for registry.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard · S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.) D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights. Where figure instead of letter symbols are used, the record is from publisher's designation, and not measurement.

Imported books are marked with an asterisk; authors' and subscription books, or books published at net prices, with two asterisks; educational books published at "wholesale" prices, with a dagger.

Aldrich, Rev. J. K. A critical examination of the question in regard to the time of our Saviour's crucifixion: showing that he was crucified on Thursday, the fourteenth day of the Jewish month Nisan, A.D. 30. Bost., [Rev. J. K. Aldrich, Wellfleet, Mass.] 1882. 262 p. D. cl., $1.50.

"This book is the result of careful study, and fills a place heretofore unoccupied. It is written to correct the great misapprehension of the western church—Roman Catholic and Protestant—in regard to the day of our Saviour's crucifixion. The false theory that he was crucified on Friday, the fifteenth day of the Jewish month Nisan, seriously calls in question the veracity and credibility of the word of God, and hence the importance of correcting it. And as investigation of the Scriptures and other sources has convinced me that the theory is a mistaken one, erroneous in itself, and fraught with irreconcilable difficulties, a sense of duty impels me to give the result to the public. The book asserts not a theory but a fact, and consequently, is irrefutable. It shows that the Scripture narrative in regard to our Saviour's crucifixion is literally true, and removes the apparent discrepancy between John and the other evangelists."—Author's preface. Rev. Hollister, G. H. Kinley Hollow: a novel. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1882. 4+379 p. S. (Leisure hour ser., no. 138.) cl., $1.

This is a posthumous novel, dealing with Calvinism in New England. Its author wrote a "History of Connecticut" and a poetical drama on "Thomas à Becket," which met with success on the stage. The New York Tribune says of this work: "The tale is not one of plot and mystery, though it is by no means deficient in interesting incident; the action, indeed, is lively and remarkably varied, and it is told with great narrative power and felicitous touches of humor; but its chief purpose is to illustrate a state of society which prevailed in Connecticut at the beginning of the present century, and has left traces more or less distinct even now in some of the quieter old villages."

The "Manual" was first published in 1854, and continued for twenty-five years one of the most popular shorthand books in the market. In 1879 it was thoroughly revised, and as the "Eclectic manual" has become a standard work. In this new edition of 1882 it has again undergone careful revision. The system is that of Isaac Pitman, with all his latest improvements, and those suggested and developed by the best American writers on phonography, and the author's own experience in the constant practice of his profession for many years. The new edition preserves all the characteristic features of the former book—simplicity of style, classification and sequence of illustrations and exercises.

"The object of the following treatise is to furnish not only for college classes, but especially for our academies and high schools, a complete system of mental science. Two facts render the treatises in common use unadapted, particularly to the two purposes last named. Such treatises, with hardly any exceptions, in the first place are too large for common use. Then they treat of but one department—the intellect. The object of the following treatise is to remedy both these defects; to furnish a work sufficiently ample for a clear elucidation of the whole subject, and at the same time so concise as not to overburden the mind of the pupil on the one hand, and on the other, to furnish a full knowledge of the entire system of mental science—the philosophy, not of the intellect merely, but also of the sensibility and will."—Preface.

AUGUST 19, 1882.

PUBLISHERS are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

"Mr. Thomas Hughes's volume is one which we should like to see very largely in the hands of young booksellers. It will not only help to impress them with a true sense of the dignity of their calling, but will also show them with singular frankness and detail, what may be accomplished by brains, integrity, and hard work."

These are the closing words of the following article, for which we are indebted to the London Bookseller. They form a fitting text for a life-sermon that is more eloquent than a hundred editorials.

DANIEL MACMILLAN.*

NEARLY all readers, and certainly every bookseller, if called upon to name the most eminent of contemporary publishers, would place that of Macmillans amongst the first half-dozen in the list. No name is more widely or more honorably known than theirs in connection with the best and highest outcome of modern English literature. The full significance of this distinction, however, only becomes apparent when we call to mind that their position has been reached in less than forty years, and that the leading founder of the business died more than twenty five years ago. None of the higher branches of commerce offer such brilliant and lasting rewards as the commerce of literature; but, on the other hand, in none is success so hedged about with difficulties, or so accurately measured by individual capacity. New publishers are far more heavily handicapped than new authors, and nothing short of the quickening power of absolute genius will hasten their growth, or assist them to bridge the chilling gulf which separates the aspirant from the ranks of established respectability. Men who have themselves fought their way unaided, alone know the bitterness and intensity of such a struggle. That the Macmillans conquered all difficulties, and not merely established themselves, but won a measure of distinction in an unusually short space of time, was simply because their ability was proportionately greater than that of their contemporaries. From their start in Cambridge in 1843 they were uniformly prosperous; they had influential friends, and were successful in their various endeavors. Good fortune, or luck—that shibboleth of the incompetent—does not deserve serious mention as a factor in their success. Their only luck was the faculty they possessed of recognizing opportunities under whatever disguise they presented themselves, and their ability to seize and turn them to advantage. The secret of their success is disclosed in Mr. Thomas Hughes's memoir of the elder of the two brothers.

Daniel Macmillan was born in the island of Arran, off the Argyle coast, in 1813. He came of a race of God-fearing, industrious folk, of the small farmer class, but too poor to do much for the advancement of their children. His father died when he was ten years old, whereupon his eldest brother, Malcolm, as a simple matter of duty, took upon himself the chief burden of the family. Aided by his brother, on the 1st January, 1824, Daniel Macmillan was bound to Maxwell Dick, bookseller, of Irvine, to serve him faithfully for seven years, beginning with a wage of 1*s.* 6*d.* a week. During his seven years Daniel learned all that his master could teach, and soon after the expiration of his time obtained a situation with Atkinson, of Glasgow, who, with his former partner, Robertson, were at that time the two most famous booksellers in the West of Scotland. At Atkinson's young Macmillan found hmself entrusted with great responsibility, and in 1833 his health, never robust, broke down under the strain, and he was obliged to throw up his employment. Restored by a few months' rest, and urged by his life-long friend, James MacLehose, then at Seeleys', to try his fortune in London, he came up to the Metropolis. The evening of his arrival we find him, under guidance of his friend MacLehose, walking through Paternoster Row, pausing to read the well-remembered names on the shop fronts, and finding much satisfaction therein. His ambition was to get into a "Row" house, but more especially into Longmans', but there he found there were no vacancies. Calling on Wightman, the Baptist publisher, he learned from him that Johnson, of Cambridge, was in want of an assistant, and finding nothing better presented itself, he closed with Mr. Johnson's offer of £30 a year. He writes to his brother William: "I am to live in the house. I am to go with his family to the Baptist Church. You will be pleased to hear this. The salary is not large, but I am very young. I shall be able to save at any rate ten or twelve pounds a year." The hours were long at Cambridge—from half-past seven in the morning until seven or later in the evening; but Daniel Macmillan never heeded hard work, it was second nature to him, and by the end of his first year he was master of the position and knew every book in the shop. He remained three years at Cambridge, and then started for a short visit to Scotland, when another attack of illness prostrated him for several weeks, and then, in 1837, through the good offices of his friend MacLehose, he obtained a situation with Messrs. Seeleys, beginning with a salary of £60 a year. He remained with the Fleet Street house until 1843, when he left them to begin business for himself at Cambridge. In 1839 Mr. MacLehose was established in Glasgow, and in the same year Daniel induced his younger brother Alexander to give up his school at Nitshill, near

* Memoir of Daniel Macmillan. By Thomas Hughes, Q.C. Macmillan & Co.

Paisley, and join him at the Seeleys'. Henceforward the two brothers worked side by side, first as fellow assistants and afterward as partners.

Since his arrival in London, Daniel Macmillan had done much more than perfect his knowledge of the details of the trade. . . . Daniel entertained the belief that booksellers should be something more than mere dealers in paper and print, and should be acquainted with the insides of books as well as their bindings. In due time this self-imposed training produced a rich harvest.

The turning-point in his career came, like such things generally do, in the least expected manner. In 1840 Daniel Macmillan had been very much impressed by a book which he had read, "Guesses at Truth. By Two Brothers." The more he studied the book and watched its influence on others, the more convinced he became of its usefulness to young men of his own class and condition of life. At length he wrote to Archdeacon Hare, one of the authors, about it, and about the need of such guide books to aid young men in the formation of opinions on morality and religion. A courteous reply came, and for the time the matter dropped. Two years afterward the lectures of Alexander Scott, a friend and helper of Edward Irving, attracted his attention, and he sent copies to Archdeacon Hare, with a letter again referring to the subject of his former communication. The Archdeacon became interested in his unknown correspondent, encouraged him to explain his views more fully, and concluded by inviting him to Hurstmonceaux. The invitation could not at once be accepted, and, lest there should be the least shadow of misunderstanding, Daniel concluded his reply by frankly saying, "It may be as well to let you know that I am only one of the clerk species, whose singular and unfortunate position with regard to spiritual culture was the cause of my first writing to you. I have no learning, can read no language except English, speak none except a partly intelligible Scotch-English dialect. I mention this so that you may know that I don't belong to any of the learned professions." At length Daniel Macmillan went to Hurstmonceaux, and the old churchman and his earnest young acquaintance were mightily pleased with each other; and the friendship thus won continued without abatement until Archdeacon Hare's death in 1855.

In the beginning of 1843 the brothers began to think it time they made a start on their own account. Both had acquired a thorough knowledge of the trade, and although they were without capital, Mr. Burnside, a partner in Seeleys', agreed to lend them £100. They managed to do without this loan, however, and took a small shop at 57 Aldersgate Street, of which Alexander took charge, while for the present Daniel continued with the Seeleys. The business was a small one, but it throve apace; but shortly afterward a larger prospect was opened to the young men. Newby's business in Cambridge was for sale, and aided with a loan of £500 from Archdeacon Hare, and with a further sum by a partner who joined them, without, however taking part in the management, before the close of 1843 Daniel Macmillan was established at Cambridge. Almost immediately he was in harness his health again broke down, and pulmonary disease began to show itself in a dangerous form. Alexander was summoned from London, and, after vainly trying for some time to keep both establishments going, the Aldersgate Street shop was reluctantly closed. Daniel's health improved, and early in 1844 the first catalogue of the brothers was published. The business was prosperous from the very beginning; customers became friends. In those days it was almost heresy for a bookseller in a university town to pretend to any knowledge of what books contained, but Daniel Macmillan did know, and in a very short time his knowledge was admitted and respected. They had plenty of difficulties to contend with — not the least being the system of outrageously long credits which then prevailed, and which they firmly and decidedly refused to give; but they prospered, and next year were able to further extend their business by the purchase of that of Mr. Stevenson, whose health compelled him to retire. This required £6000 more of borrowed capital, and the admission of fresh partners, who did nothing for the firm beyond drawing their share of the profits.

Already, in 1844, we find Daniel Macmillan turning his attention to the prospect of becoming a publisher, and writing to Hare on the subject. The first venture seems to have been made in that year. It was a small volume, published at the request of John Sterling—a reprint of an answer by William Law, author of "The Serious Call," to Mandeville's "Fable of the Bees," with an introduction by Professor Maurice. From this time their imprint was seen, with annually increasing frequency, on the title-pages of books, but it was not until 1855 that the house obtained their first great popular success with Charles Kingsley's "Westward Ho," concerning which, Daniel Macmillan writes exultingly to the author that Mudies had taken 350 copies! By this time the success of the house was assured; book after book was issued, and a rising set of young authors gathered about them, whose names have since become of world-wide celebrity. But the life of Daniel Macmillan was fast drawing to its close. The progress of the pulmonary disease, from which he suffered, continually drove him from Cambridge in search of relief. He lingered through the early summer months of 1857, and at length, on the 27th of June in that year, passed quietly away. But the seeds sown by Daniel Macmillan have borne fruit most plentifully, and the steady progress of the great publishing house which he founded is too well known to require more than a passing reference in these pages.

The brothers Macmillan commenced with a high sense of their mission. They were traders, but their merchandise was knowledge, and on its quality depended the future happiness or misery of millions of their fellow creatures. They won their way by dint of good Scotch shrewdness and common sense, but allied with this were higher impulses, which gave to their work a character far nobler than that of merely successful trading. Under the guidance of Mr. Alexander Macmillan, the house has continued to pursue the course marked out at the commencement, and now that a new generation, sons of each of the founders, is taking an active share in the management, we may hope for many years to witness its continued prosperity.

POOLE'S INDEX.

IT is with especial pleasure that we are enabled to announce authoritatively that James R. Osgood & Co. will in December issue the invaluable and long expected "Index to Periodical Literature," by William Frederick Poole, LL.D., Librarian of the Chicago Public Library. This third edition is brought down to January, 1882, with the assistance as Associate Editor of William I. Fletcher, Assistant Librarian of the Watkinson Library, Hartford, Conn., and the co-operation of the American Library Association and the Library Association of the United Kingdom. It will make a royal octavo volume, and will, without doubt, well sustain the well-known character of its compilers for accurate and painstaking work. Apropos of the early appearance of the "Index," the following anecdote, clipped from the Nation, is but another contribution to the record of the trials and tribulations of authors.

"On the 5th of July a parcel of manuscript of Poole and Fletcher's great 'Index to Periodicals,' containing the material for about twenty printed pages, was stolen from the express on its way to the printer. Imagine the state of mind of the editors! Manuscript of that kind cannot be written out from the imagination of an editor. The indexes of some periodicals might, so far as they were concerned, furnish an imperfect substitute; but the twenty pages could never be entirely replaced without going over from beginning to end all represented in the Index—over 4000 volumes, the three years' work of some fifty co-operators. But, fortunately, while the editors were considering how much of this could be undertaken without delaying their printer too long, the manuscript was found under a street-counter, where it had been thrown by the disappointed thief."

THE DELIGHTS OF CATALOGUES.

THE Bibliographer for August opens an interesting article on early catalogues and book-lists with the following remarks:

"We have heard it remarked by more than one reader of the Bibliographer, that one of the most delightful occupations is the perusal of book-catalogues. And, indeed, it is almost a truism to say that to every book-lover a catalogue is an object of great interest, for if we pay attention simply to the catalogues of book sales and of second-hand booksellers there is much knowledge and out-of-the-way information to be gained therefrom. Next to the satisfaction of sending off a parcel of treasures is the satisfaction of marking in a catalogue the books that we should like to have, but cannot buy. The writer of this article has congregated a goodly-sized heap of these marked catalogues, and they do not, by any means, lose their interest by being kept. But book-catalogues have an interest over and above their accidental value. There is what we may venture to term their personal value and their chronological value. By their personal value we mean the value attached to a catalogue of the books of any great author. Who, for instance, would not like to know the books that Shakespeare had accumulated on his shelves! One reads still with delight the catalogues of the Fonthill Abbey Library, of the Strawberry Hill Library, of the Library of Brand, and of others well known; and we are not at all sure whether the MS. catalogue of Gibbon's library, once in the possession of Beckford, would not find an acceptable welcome in these pages. By the chronological value of book-catalogues, we mean that value which attaches to the records of books at various periods of literary history by which we can ascertain the whereabouts of certain rare books and the general distribution of literature at certain periods."

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM STANLEY JEVONS.

A LONDON dispatch of August 15 states that Professor William Stanley Jevons, the philosopher and professor of Political Economy, has been drowned while bathing at Bexhill. Professor Jevons was born in Liverpool, England, in 1835. He was a grandson of William Roscoe, the historian. He was educated at the University College, London; held an appointment in the Australian Royal Mint at Sydney from 1854 to 1859, and visited this country in 1860. In 1864 he became a fellow of his college, and in 1866 was appointed Professor of Logic and Mental and Moral Philosophy and Cobden Lecturer on Political Economy in Owens College, Manchester. He was the author of a pamphlet on "The Value of Gold," published in 1863, and of another, published in 1865, on "The Coal Question," showing the probable impending exhaustion of the English coal fields, and the expediency of liquidating the national debt in time. He published "Elementary Lessons in Logic" in 1870, a "Theory of Political Economy," and an elaborate treatise on the Principles of Science in 1874, in which numerous original ideas concerning processes of reasoning are propounded. He was examiner in Moral Science in the University of Cambridge in 1874–75, and in Logic and Mental and Moral Philosophy in the University of London in 1878.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MR. MONCURE D. CONWAY is engaged upon a work describing the South Kensington Museum, which will be abundantly illustrated.

MR. JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS has another Uncle Remus book under way, and is also at work upon a novel, a story of slave-life in the South.

MR. J. T. ALTEMUS, the editor of the Newsdealer's Bulletin, has been busily engaged for some time in writing a novel descriptive of early life in California. It is nearly complete, and will be published in the fall.

MR. R. H. SHEPHERD has in preparation "The Life, Letters, and Uncollected Writings, in Prose and Verse, of W. Makepeace Thackeray." It will probably be remembered, remarks the Academy, that Thackeray did not wish any biography of himself to be published.

MR. SYDNEY HOWARD GAY, editor for some years of the Evening Post, and the author of a popular history of the United States, is to write a life of James Madison for the American Statesmen Series. Prof. Sumner, of Yale, is at work on the life of Jackson; President Gilman, of Johns Hopkins, will write about Monroe; and Albert Gallatin falls to the lot of Mr. J. A. Stevens, late editor of the Magazine of American History.

CUES TO TIMELY TOPICS.

EGYPT AND TURKEY.

THE SUEZ CANAL.—The International Review for August has an article on the Suez Canal, by Victor M. Hollinsworth, containing description, history and valuable statistics.

EGYPT.—For present purposes the most useful list of references is given under the heading "European Interests in Egypt," in the Providence Public Library Monthly Reference Lists for July.

Bulletin No. 62 (July) of the Boston Public Library contains the titles of a large number of books on Egypt, Assyria, etc., mostly purchased from the library of M. Chabas.

The Century for September will contain a timely paper on "The War in Egypt," by Gen. McClellan.

Mr. S. Lane-Poole, whose brief description of Egypt for Messrs. Sampson Low & Co.'s series of "Foreign Countries" has proved serviceable to the journalists in the present imbroglio, has been engaged, says the Athenæum, to write the Egyptian portion of the "Picturesque Palestine," &c., which Messrs. Virtue & Co. are bringing out with the collaboration of Col. Wilson, Lieut. Conder, Prof. Palmer, Miss Rogers, and others.

TURKEY AND EGYPT.—On the history of Turkey, Freeman and Creasy will be found most valuable. Freeman is more readable, and is not without peculiar and characteristic merits. Lane and McCoan are the authorities on modern Egypt. Baker's "Turkey" gives an alleviating view of the Turkish government. Argyll's "Eastern Question" discusses the general relations of Turkey to the adjacent nationalities. For an account of events leading to the complications of 1875–80, recourse should be had to the "Annual Register," and to the English Reviews for those years. For a thorough history of Turkey, Zinkeisen is above all others, except von Hammer–Purgstall.—Adams' "Manual of Historical Literature."

MAPS OF EGYPT.—The (London) Bookseller reports the following maps:

"Letts, Son & Co., Limited, have published a map of Egypt, on a scale of forty-five miles to the inch, with an enlarged plan of the Suez Canal. Also, a plan of Alexandria, with houses and streets, on a scale of three inches to the mile. James Wyld publishes several maps and plans. That of Alexandria and neighborhood, with forts and defences, is a very useful companion to the newspaper. Another is the Isthmus of Suez and Lower Egypt, showing the lines of railways. E. Stanford issues the late Colonel Leake's elaborate map of Lower Egypt, on a large scale, and also separate plans of the fortifications and streets of Alexandria. There is, also, a smaller, but very clear, map of Lower Egypt, good for handy reference. A. Johnston has published a useful map, by Messrs. A. and K. Johnston, to illustrate affairs in Egypt. The scale is 76 inches to the mile, and the map includes the Mediterranean Sea, with enlarged map of Upper Egypt. There are also plans of Alexandria, the Bosphorus, and Constantinople. It sells at a shilling, and is an exceedingly well-printed sheet."

One of the best maps, by Kiepert, has just been received in this country by the German importers.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE Art Journal for September and October will contain biographical notices of John Linnell by Mr. F. G. Stephens.

THE Paper World, for August, gives a resumé of the career of the Boston Post, with a portrait of Col. Greene, long its editor.

MR. CLARENCE COOK will contribute a critical article on New York Architecture to the next number of The North American Review.

THE Courier, of Cincinnati, is a new monthly review, devoted to music and literature, which reaches its fifth number in the present month.

Justice is the name of a new weekly newspaper devoted to anti-monopoly principles, which made its appearance, in this city, on August 5.

Q. P. INDEX adds three new issues to the indexed essays, published under the serial title of "The Monograph." They are "Richard III.," by Goldwin Smith; "Felipe II.," by John Fiske; and "Historical Quotations," by A. Hayward.

Forest and Stream has, with the first issue in August, been enlarged to 28 pages, weekly; the Forest and Stream is devoted to angling, shooting, and yachting, and kindred out-of-door manly recreations. It is one of the journalistic successes of the day. It is published by the Forest and Stream Publishing Co., 39 Park Row, New York City.

Harper's Magazine, for September, will have for a frontispiece a drawing called "Autumn," by E. A. Abbey, engraved by Closson. Among the illustrated articles will be one by Mrs. M. E. Sherwood on "Certain New York Houses," showing some of the most notable work in interior decorations; and Miss Mary Robinson's paper on Dante Gabriel Rossetti. Mr. John Bigelow will contribute a paper on "The Railway Invasion of Mexico."

MISS CONSTANCE FENIMORE WOOLSON, who has now quite recovered from an almost fatal illness, has finished her new novel, and the first chapters will be printed in the November number of Harper's Magazine. It is called "For the Major," and is altogether an American story. Another pleasant announcement made by the editor of the magazine is that of a series of short stories which Charles Reade is writing expressly for its pages.

THE September Century will contain an article on Thomas Bewick by Mr. Austin Dobson, the well-known English writer of society verse, who is, it seems, also an inveterate print-collector. A notable incident of this publication is the reprinting of a score of Bewick's most celebrated cuts by The Century presses of Messrs. Francis Hart & Co., who, it is generally acknowledged, have brought the printing of wood-cuts to its highest point of achievement.

S. C. & L. M. GOULD, Manchester, N. H., send us No. 1, Vol I., of Notes, Queries and Answers, a monthly periodical designed in a measure to take the place so long filled by the Educational Notes and Queries of the late Dr. Henkle, of Ohio. The editor is N. B. Webster, of Norfolk, Va., and the intention is to afford a convenient medium of information and response on questions literary, scientific, and historical for teachers, pupils, practical and professional men.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BOSTON.—Mr. A. T. Laughton, who has been for years connected with the book-store of Lockwood, Brooks & Co., of Boston, has recently become associated with A. Williams & Co. His knowledge of books and his urbanity cannot fail to render him equally popular and useful in the Old Corner Book-store, which continues to be a Mecca for men of letters, and lovers of good books.

ELMIRA, N. Y.—ARTHUR S. FITCH, for six years with the old firm of Hall Brothers, booksellers, and for the past eleven years in the same line on his own account; Hosmer H. Billings, for seven years with the firm of Hall Brothers, and for the past two years with Messrs. Preswick, Morse, & Co., and Frederic Hall, for many years the sole proprietor of the firm of Hall Brothers, have formed a copartnership, under the firm name of Fitch, Billings, & Co., and will conduct a general book, stationery, and news business at the store familiarly known as "The Popular Bookstore," 112 Baldwin Street, Elmira, N. Y., to which place they invite the patronage so generously extended the former firms.

NEW YORK.—VAN WINKLE AND WEEDON'S school book exchange, recently established at 90 Chambers Street, furnishes a convenient medium for the working off of remainders and over-stock of educational books. So long as frequent changes in text-books continue to be the rule with school boards dealers will be threatened with accumulations of stock of uncertain sale. Such a school book exchange as that of Van Winkle and Weedon furnishes, therefore, one means for disposing of any slow-selling surplus.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will soon publish in their Leisure Hour Series, Mr. H. C. Bunner's poems, both the serious and the humorous.

THOMAS WHITTAKER will publish in September the conferences of the French priest, Père Didou, on "Science without God," translated into English by Rosa Conder.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN, & Co., have in press "The Letters of Lydia Maria Child," with a biographical introduction by Mr. Whittier and an appendix by Wendell Phillips.

J. W. RANDOLPH & ENGLISH will publish, September 1, volume 75 of "Reports and Cases decided in the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia," compiled by James M. Matthews.

BRET HARTE'S poems are just ready at Houghton, Mifflin & Co.'s, in a new Household edition; and the poems of Saxe and of the Cary sisters are also in preparation in this popular form.

THE title of J. T. Trowbridge's Christmas book, to be published by Lee & Shepard, will be "The Jolly Rover." It is the story of a boy who, rendered over-valiant by dime novels, went forth to extirpate the Indians.

HENKELS & TRIPPLE, the new book-auction house of Philadelphia, announce an important sale of a valuable collection of books, including many fine English editions, early imprints and Americana on October 3, 4, 5, and 6. Catalogues will soon be ready.

ROBERT CLARKE & Co. report that Franklin B. Hough's "Elements of Forestry," published last month, has already reached a second edition. This work is attracting the attention of students in forestry throughout the country, and will doubtless do good service.

HARPER & BROS. will publish in September, "Highways and Byways," written and illustrated by W. H. Gibson. Mr. Abbey's illustrations of Herrick will be printed in a handsome volume in October. These pictures have long been the delight of readers of Harper's Magazine.

MOSES KING will issue at once "Fac-similes of Examples in Delineation," a series of thirteen plates selected from the masters for the use of students in drawing, executed by the Forbes Albertype process. The compiler is Charles H. Moore, instructor of drawing in Harvard University.

FOWLER & WELLS have decided to place into the hands of the trade their large work on the "History of Woman Suffrage," edited by Miss Stanton, Mrs. Anthony, and Mrs. Sage. The work will be complete in three volumes, the first and second are ready. The first volume only was issued as a subscription-book.

S. C. GRIGGS & Co. will publish early in September "A Practical German Grammar," by W. C. Sawyer, Ph.D., and "The Development of English Language and Literature," by Prof. A. H. Welsh. In October they will issue the second volume of Griggs' Philosophical Classics. This will be "Schelling's Transcendental Idealism," by Prof. John Watson.

HENRY A. SUMNER & Co. will issue shortly as a new volume in the Hammock series, a novel, entitled "Maplerange." They have now ready new editions of W. H. Thome's time-honored books of adventure, viz.: "The Gold Hunter's Adventures," "The Bush-Rangers," "The Gold Hunters in Europe," "A Whaleman's Adventures in the Sandwich Islands," "A Slaver's Adventures," "Life in the East Indies," and "Running the Blockade."

PHILLIPS & HUNT have just published Hurlbut's "Life of Christ" as number 38 of the Chautauqua Text-Books; "Minutes of the Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church" (Spring of 1882); W. C. Wilkinson's "Preparatory Greek Course in English," as one of the After-school Series; a revised edition of Rev. Dr. Hunt's compilation of "Laws relating to Religious Corporations;" and, for the author, Dr. William Taylor's "Ten Years of Self-supporting Missions in India."

D. LOTHROP & Co. will soon issue as a holiday book, but in advance of the season, "The Ballad of the Lost Hare," by the charming authoress, Margaret Sydney. The illustrations depict the story in the clearest manner, and the pathos, humor, and musical rhythm of the verse render it one of those ballads that are learned by heart by little ones. They will also publish Geo. MacDonald's new book, "Weighed and Wanting," the original manuscript of which was furnished the American publishers before publication in England.

MACMILLAN & Co. have in press for immediate issue a cheap edition of Butcher & Lang's famous translation of Homer's Odyssey. It is printed in the same elegant style as the English book and is another sign of the determination of this house to produce cheap American editions of such of their popular works as may fairly be termed "classical." This translation has been esteemed one of the best prose versions of the Odyssey in the language, and this cheap reprint cannot fail to be a boon to classical scholars and a delight to the general reader.

ROBERT CLARKE & CO. have just issued a handsome 8vo volume of 211 pages, containing the proceedings of the thirteenth annual meeting of the Society of the Army of the Cumberland, at Chattanooga, Tenn., September 21 and 22, 1881. The late President Garfield was an active member of this Society from its first organization. He had looked forward to this meeting with great interest. In consequence of his death the proceedings were chiefly of a memorial character, in which the members of the Society were joined by thousands of ex-Confederate soldiers. The volume contains a fine steel portrait of General Garfield, and its contents are very interesting.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish in September, Sherman's "March to the Sea," by General Cox, as the next volume in Scribner's Campaign Series, and Chaplain Van Horne's "Life of General Thomas." A fine steel portrait of General Thomas will accompany the Life. They will issue in October a new book by H. H. Boyesen, the title of which will probably be "Idyls of Norway and other poems." The first poem in the book will be "The Lost Hellas." The last of the Norse idyls, "Thora," is soon to appear, with illustrations, in Our Continent. "Calphurnia," and other poems which are to be included in this volume, are already familiar to Mr. Boyesen's admirers. About the same date they will publish Mr. Andrew Lang's "Helen of Troy," which Bell, of London, will also issue in England.

SCRIBNER & WELFORD announce for immediate issue, "Cecilia; or, Memories of an Heiress," by Frances Burney, which the English publishers, Bell & Daldy, bring out in honor of the centenary of this the best of Fanny Burney's novels. The new edition has a preface and notes by Mrs. A. R. Ellis. The Athenæum says, "We trust that many jaded novel-readers will turn to the delightful book which delighted their great-grandfathers." Scribner & Welford will also issue at the same time a cheap illustrated edition of F. C. Burnand's "Happy Thoughts;" Mrs. H. R. Haweis' "Chaucer for Children;" a new edition of George Herbert's "The Temple," with an introductory essay by Mr. J. Henry Shorthouse, the author of "John Inglesant;" J. O. Halliwell Phillipps' "Outlines of the Life of Shakspeare;" "America Revisited," by George Augustus Sala, and "The Zoological Gardens," a new "Aunt Louisa" colored toy-book for children.

JAMES R. OSGOOD & CO. recently issued a new edition of the "Imitation of Christ," by Thomas à Kempis, which is selling at a reduced price, and is brought out in exquisite style. Religious libraries give it large patronage. They are also progressing as rapidly as possible with the publication of W. D. Howells' last novel, "A Modern Instance," and later in the autumn have in store even a greater treat in a new romance by Nathaniel Hawthorne. It is entitled "Doctor Grimshawe's Secret," and is one of Hawthorne's most powerful and characteristic works. The story turns upon the claims of an American to ancestral estates in England, and the scenes are laid on both sides of the Atlantic. Julian Hawthorne has prepared a preface for this latest relic of his father's genius. "The Correspondence of Thomas Carlyle and Ralph Waldo Emerson," to which reference was made in our last issue, will appear in December. The letters were long since placed in the hands of the editor, Mr. Charles Eliot Norton, with the fullest powers for editing and publication. Mr. Norton's connection with the book is sufficient guaranty of the quality of the editorial work. An interesting and valuable memoir of a distinguished officer, prominent both by his scientific attainments and his services in war-times, will be the "Memoir of Rear-Admiral John A. Dahlgren," by his widow. A beautifully executed edition of Scott's "Lady of the Lake," with one hundred and twenty illustrations by leading American artists, will appear in October, and promises to be one of the holiday features of the year. The landscapes are all from drawings made upon the spot. This house presents in this number of the WEEKLY their list of announcements for fall publication.

SAMPSON LOW & CO. will publish in the early autumn a new work, by the Rev. W. E. Winks, on the "Lives of Illustrious Shoemakers."

THE Belgian Academy of Science offers a prize of 3000 fr. for the best essay on the pollution of rivers and the destruction of fish. The essay should be sent to the Secretary before October 1st, 1884.

M. RENAN'S recent treatise on the "Ecclesiastes" has been placed by the authorities of the Roman Church on the "Index Librorum Prohibitorum"—the list of books which no good Catholic is permitted to open.

A NEW novel by that versatile writer, M. Jules Claretie, was published last week by Dentu. It is entitled "Le Million;" and, like his last, "Monsieur Le Ministre" (which is now in its forty-seventh edition), it deals with the social life of to-day.

CHATTO & WINDUS have in press a new work by Captains Burton and Cameron, entitled, "To the Gold Coast for Gold: A Personal Narrative." The same firm is about to bring out M. de Hesse-Wartegg's "Golden Land," a book describing his travels in the Southern States and Mexico.

FREDERICK WARNE & CO. signify their appreciation of the English demand for our Western work by announcing "The Columbia Library," of American copyright Literature. The first volume in the series is "The Hoosier Schoolboy," by Mr. Edwin Eggleston. The prices announced are a shilling, paper, and a shilling and six-pence, cloth.

THE Academy says that Lord Chief Justice Coleridge has been kind enough to let Dr. Alois Brandl have access, for his new work on Coleridge, to all the letters of Coleridge, Wordsworth, and Southey addressed to the late Sir John Coleridge. The Coleridge letters cover nearly the whole of the poet's career, and begin with the appeal to buy his discharge from the army.

ACCORDING to the Academy the whole of the large-paper copies of Shakspere's works

("Parchment Library") now publishing by Kegan Paul, Trench & Co. were sold on the day of issue. Six copies of the work are to be printed on vellum, which are all bespoken. Six copies of the Imitation of Christ, in the same series, were also printed on vellum, and sold at once.

MESSRS. KENT have hit upon an ingenious device. They have printed separately each of Shakespeare's plays in clear though small type, and they have manufactured a pocket-book in French morocco, provided with a patent clasp and a pencil, and just large enough to hold one of the plays. The Shakespeare fanatic can carry any play he chooses in his pocket without exposing it to wear and tear.

REEVES & TURNER will issue immediately two new editions of Shelley's poetical works, edited by Mr. H. Buxton Forman. A great number of fresh collations, Mrs. Shelley's invaluable biographical and critical notes, and a new subject index will serve to complete the work and render it exceptionally valuable. One of the editions will be in four, and another, containing the text only, will be in two volumes.

W. BLACKWOOD & SONS, Edinburgh, propose to issue an illustrated volume dealing with the life and works of David Scott, R.S.A. It will consist of a "Biographical and Critical Essay" by John M. Gay, author of "George Manson and his Works," reprinted, with revision and considerable additions, from Blackwood's Magazine, and a carefully compiled catalogue of the artist's works, giving particulars as to their size, present owners, etc. The book will be illustrated by about thirty illustrations, giving typical examples of David Scott's art.

THE London Academy announces that the American reader prefers modern French fiction to any other, and adds: "Translations of the more celebrated works of French novelists are published in rapid succession, and apparently find a ready sale." This, remarks Our Continent, is only a fresh illustration of the English habit of taking for granted any affirmation made as to American characteristics, whether anything is known of them or not, the facts in this particular case being that Americans have a decided disrelish for translations of modern French fiction, as American publishers have found to their cost.

THE committee of the Bookbinders' Pension and Asylum Society (London) intend, states the Bibliographer, building two additional almshouses as a completion and frontage of one wing of their Asylum in Ball's Pond Road. These are to be called the Ferguson Cottages, as a monument to the memory of the late Mrs. Georgina Ferguson, who, by will, bequeathed the sum of £1100 to the Society. There are two cottages also to be added to the other wing. The cost of the building of which will be defrayed out of the jubilee fund, which was raised at a banquet presided over by Lord Houghton, and contributed to by the employés in the trade. The committee hope to be able next year to elect an additional Ferguson pensioner and a jubilee pensioner.

DECORATIF ART EXHIBITION. — We learn from the Bibliographie de la France, says the Bibliographer, that in the exhibition of the "Union Centrale des Arts Decoratifs," which is to be held in the Palais de l'Industrie, Paris, in September, the principal industries concerned are those dealing in paper. These will be divided into two sections—the book and the picture; under the first heading will be classed all the products of printing, and under the second those of engraving. There will be a retrospective museum, which will represent good specimens of the arts of the past relating to furniture, costume, books and engravings. In the modern exhibitions prizes will be given. Any publishers, booksellers, or bookbinders wishing to take part should send to the office, Place des Vosges 3, Paris.

THE "Almanach de Gotha" issues the first of what is designed to be an annual supplement to that valuable organ of information. The "Annuaire," as this supplementary publication is called, is a thinner volume, but otherwise is identical in form with the "Almanach," and is intended to perfect the list of diplomatic and consular agents of the civilized nations of both hemispheres. It first gives the ambassadors, ministers, etc., of each country, and immediately afterward the secretaries, attachés, etc.—all arranged alphabetically for ready reference. Then comes a list under each country of the diplomatic and consular corps resident therein, in alphabetical order, (a) by nationality, (b) by places of residence. Finally, the entire personnel is indexed. The national colors occupy four colored plates at the end. The editors crave and merit indulgence for the necessary shortcomings of a first edition.

JOHN LOVELL & SON, Montreal, have just published the third volume of Henry J. Morgan's "Dominion Annual Register and Review" as a double issue, covering the years 1880 and 1881. The Evening Post, in a review of the "Register," speaks of it as full of interesting information relating to Canada, and says that among other things Mr. Morgan furnishes a readable summary of achievements in literature, science, and art. The literary product of the Dominion is not to be despised, though it is strongest in historical works like Ryerson's "Loyalists of America" and Rattray's (unfinished) "Scot in British North America," unless we admit (as Mr. Morgan does) Goldwin Smith's "Cowper" and "Lectures and Essays." Marchand's translation (unfinished) of Kalm's journals of his travels in America; Gagnon's "Chansons Populaires du Canada," and Todd's "Parliamentary Government in the British Colonies," are also deserving of mention. There are now no fewer than seven historical societies in the Dominion, one of the youngest, that of Nova Scotia, being perhaps the most vigorous and promising.

NOW READY—THE DULL SEASON.

HENKELS & TRIPPLE,

AUCTIONEERS,

1117 CHESTNUT STREET, PHILADELPHIA.

Having the handsomest Rooms in the city for the sale of

Books, Paintings, Engravings, Articles of Virtu, Autographs, Coins, Stationery and Fancy Articles, are now ready to receive consignments, and invite the trade generally to employ the dull season in examining their stock and selecting that portion which may be shop-worn or otherwise, and make consignment of the same, thus profiting from the maxim, "A NIMBLE SIXPENCE IS BETTER THAN A SLOW SHILLING," and at the same time giving themselves room for fresh stock and affording the public an opportunity to become familiar with their wares.

Small invoices as well as large solicited; all receive careful attention. Goods consigned to us are insured against loss by fire without extra charge. Returns promptly made.

Our rooms are spacious, handsomely furnished, well lighted and ventilated. An

is the best guarantee we can offer for the faithful performance of any commission with which we may be honored.

CHICAGO,

WILL PUBLISH AUGUST 26th:

The System of Mental Philosophy.

By Prof. ASA MAHAN, D.D., LL.D. 300 pages, 12mo, cloth, retail, $1.50.

The object of the following treatise is to furnish a work sufficiently ample for a clear elucidation of the whole subject, and at the same time so concise as not to overburden the mind of the pupil on the one hand, and on the other, to furnish a FULL KNOWLEDGE OF THE ENTIRE SYSTEM of Mental Science—the Philosophy, not of the Intellect merely, but also of the Sensibility and Will.

Prof. H. H. SANFORD, of the University of Chicago, writes: "The work seems to be an excellent one for class use. The author states facts in such clear and scientific terms as to leave the impression that there are reliable facts of mind. I think that a careful examination will lead to ITS GENERAL ADOPTION AS A TEXT-BOOK."

WILL BE READY EARLY IN SEPTEMBER.

A Practical German Grammar.

By W. C. SAWYER, Ph.D., Prof. of German, Lawrence University, Wis.

Its object is to provide means for the student to learn the essentials for reading and speaking the language, in the shortest and clearest way.

The Development of English Literature and Language.

By Prof. A. H. WELSH.

It is crowded with information and helpful truths, digested and arranged with a clearness and system that at once hold the interest and attention of the student and reader, and present the clearest picture of its theme, it is believed, to be found in the language. Ready in September.

NOW READY. THE INITIAL VOLUME OF

Griggs' Philosophical Classics.

Kant's Critique of Pure Reason. A CRITICAL EXPOSITION. By GEORGE S. MORRIS, Ph.D. 16mo, cloth, $1.25.

Dr. R. A. HOLLAND, Rector Trinity Church, Chicago, writes: "Certainly it is the most ambitious enterprise America has yet attempted in philosophy, and has in the names of its authors the surest promise of success."

The Second Volume of the Series to be ready in October, will be Schelling's Transcendental Idealism. By Prof. JOHN WATSON, of Queen's University, Kingston, Canada.

 Descriptive Circulars sent on Application.

Christmas and New Year's Cards.

ANNOUNCEMENT.—We beg leave to announce the completion of our line of Christmas and New Year Cards for the season 1882–1883, for which our agents will commence to solicit orders in May. We feel confident that the popularity which our Cards have enjoyed in former seasons will again be secured by the efforts we have made to bring out a line in advance of all our previous productions. The names of the artists who have contributed designs is proof of our continued efforts to reach the highest excellence. We will name only the following: Miss L. B. Humphrey, Miss F. Bridges, Miss Dora Wheeler, Mrs. O. E. Whitney, Miss Rosina Emmet, Miss Florence Taber, Miss L. B. Comins, Thomas Moran, Frederick Dielman, Alfred Fredericks, Alexander Saudier, Harry Beard, Walter Satterlee, R. G. Birch, Theo. Liebler, F. Schuyler Mathews, Geo. J. Barnes, H. P. Kendall.

Due regard has again been paid to the literary matter in connection with the designs, and many of the latter are accompanied by original poems, from writers of note, such as: Mrs. Celia Thaxter and Mrs. Emily Shaw Forman.

A NEW EDITION OF

THE BOYS OF '61.

AN IMMENSE SUCCESS.

Six Editions Sold in Six Months.

UNIFORM WITH "THE BOYS OF '61."

Our New Way 'Round the World. By CHARLES CARLETON COFFIN, author of "The Story of Liberty," "Following the Flag," "The Boys of '76," "Winning His Way," "My Days and Nights on the Battlefield," etc., etc. A new and improved edition of this standard book of travel, which is interesting and useful to young and old; with a large number of additional illustrations. 1 vol., 8vo, cloth, gilt, $2.50.

Pioneer Life and Frontier Adventure. An authentic record of the romantic life and daring exploits of Kit Carson and his companions from his own narrative. By Col. C. D. PETERS. Fully illustrated. 1 vol., 8vo, cloth, gilt, $2.50.

Palestine, Historical and Descriptive. By the Rev. W. L. GAGE, author of "Gage's Historical Atlas," "Studies in Bible Lands," "Ritter's Palestine," etc., and Dean Stanley, of Westminster. Fully illustrated with fine wood engravings after designs by Bida and others. 1 vol., 8vo, cloth, gilt, $2.50.

The Home Book of Poetry. Compiled by DANA ESTES, from the best English and American poets, with fine steel-plate illustrations. Printed on super-calendered paper. A new edition. Price reduced from $6. 1 vol., 8vo, cloth, gilt, $2.50.

IN PRESS.

Young Folks' History of Mexico. Comprising the principal events from the sixth century to the present time. By FREDERICK A. OBER, author of "Camps in the Caribbees." 1 vol., 16mo, cloth, $1.50.

The intimate relations of our country with Mexico which the railroads and mines are developing, make this volume one of the most important in the entire series.

Young Folks' History of the Netherlands. A concise history of Holland and Belgium, from the earliest times, in which the author goes over the ground covered by Motley in his standard histories of these most interesting countries, and brings the narrative down to the present time. By ALEXANDER YOUNG. 1 vol., 16mo, cloth, $1.50.

Six Girls. A charming book for Girls. By FANNIE BELLE IRVING. Beautiful designs by Merrill, the illustrator of the holiday edition of "Little Women." 1 vol., 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"Taken altogether, this is one of the best books for girls which has been brought out for years. It is not quite so dashing as 'Little Women,' though as witty as that, and far more refined in tone; but it is certainly vastly superior to anything Miss Alcott has produced of late years."—Indianapolis Herald.

"This author was still alive to every variety of girlish emotion when this book was written (being under twenty); she, therefore, carried the whole story in her heart."—Indianapolis Review.

The Slaves of Paris. By EMILE GABORIAU. 1 vol., 8vo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.

The Slaves of Paris is a masterpiece of its kind. The palate satiated with the foibles of the contemporary society novel may turn to this work of Gaboriau's with the assurance of an appetizing repast.

A good book to recommend to Ladies going to the Country.—Combines instruction and pastime.

A Reading Diary of Modern Fiction.

Containing a representative list of the novels of the nineteenth century, preceded by suggestive remarks on novels and novel-reading.

The object of this "Reading Diary" is to present survey of all that is considered worth reading in the domain of modern fiction, and thus to make easy a daily record of what has been read, and what to read next, with a view to comparing notes and a mutual exchange of recommendations among congenial friends. It also is to serve as a check-list or guide to the choice of books at the book-store. For this purpose it presents a select list of over one thousand of the best works of modern fiction, with blank facing pages for additions or memoranda.

It is issued in 32mo (160 pages), diary style, suitable for the pocket, and is as neat and attractive in appearance as it is useful in contents and novel in plan. Retail price, paper, 25 cents; cloth, 50 cents; russia, gilt edges, $1. Orders filled by the jobbers.
